Ireland, Travel Requirements, and Arrival

Documents to bring

Generally, to open a bank account you require proof of source of funds documentation. This could be 6 months (up to the current month) of bank statements from your home country. These are your parents' accounts if they are funding you or, your own accounts if you are self-funding. The documents you bring will have to be certified/notarised in your home country before you arrive. If you have already arrived, you will have to organise for someone in your home country to help you with this. Statements must be in English or else you must provide a certified translation.

- Check your passport is in date for the duration of your time in Ireland
- Make sure you have all the required documents to support your visa and the documentation for extending your visa to study and for opening a bank account.
- UL offer letter sent via email or hardcopy
- Proof of Funds
- Medical Insurance documentation
- Travel Insurance documentation
- Medical prescriptions and documents you need regularly. If you are travelling with medical equipment such as syringes or Epi Pens, you will need clearance from your airline. Make sure the prescriptions state the chemical names of the active ingredients and not just the brand name. Check with your airline regarding all medications as you may be travelling through more than one country to arrive in Ireland. Check that the medication is legal in Ireland and can be brought into the country. Your doctor can help with this.
- Medical information translated into English should you have a condition where you will need a regular prescription or medical consultations
- Tip: Make sure you leave copies of the documents and your passport with a family member in the event that they are misplaced so they can email copies when you need them

Packing Tips

The essentials for your carry-on bag include:

- Check the airline website for passenger requirements as they may differ from airline to airline
- A towel and a change of clothes for when you arrive at your accommodation.
- Your important documents
- Medications that you will need and original documentation related to the medications such as a certificate from the doctor and a prescription. Make sure medications are in their original packaging.
- Spare pair of glasses or contact lenses and the lens prescription
- Euro currency: Euro notes come in seven denominations 5, 10, 20, 50, 100, 200 and 500 Euro. The 5, 10 and 50-euro notes are the most common notes in circulation. It is 100 cents to the Euro and coins are in denominations of 5, 10, 20 and 50 cents and 1 and 2 Euros.
- Some snacks - in case the airline does not have a food service running
- Your phone and charger. A travel adapter is also useful. The standard electricity voltage is between 220 – 240 volts. The frequency is 50 Hertz, the same as in most parts of Europe. If your electrical items are not suited to work under these conditions, you should equip yourself with a transformer. Buildings in Ireland have sockets for 13 amp square pin fused plugs. Adaptors are found in most supermarkets, in order to make your electronics compatible with the three-pin sockets.
- Check out tips and tricks from previous international students that might help you prepare!

Time Zone

Don't forget the change the time-zone before you travel. Ireland is in the same time zone as the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland (UK), Greenwich Mean Time (GMT). The clocks change twice yearly for summer time. The summer time period starts the last Sunday in March at 1.00am GMT, i.e. the clock goes forward one hour. The summertime period ends the last Sunday in October at 1.00am GMT, i.e. the clock goes back one hour.

Climate

Check out The Irish Meteorological Service for weather and climate information. Winters in Ireland are mild and summers temperate, due to the prevailing south-westerly winds and the influence of the warm water of the North Atlantic Drift. Ireland has a mild climate all year, averaging 2°- 7°C (35°- 45°F) in winter and 18°- 24°C (65°- 75°F) in summer. May and June are the sunniest months.

Pre arrival
We advise all prospective students to contact DSS in advance of their arrival to UL, particularly if they require transport, sight guide, technology or personal assistant supports. These types of supports may take more time to arrange, and some services may not be available to all students. Prospective students can contact DSS directly at Disabilityservices@ul.ie or +353 (0)61 234847/202965 to discuss these requirements. Safety when Out and About

- When travelling on foot, use busy routes and well-lit walkways. Avoid isolated and dark areas.
- When travelling alone, inform another trusted party of your intended destination, mode of transport and expected time of arrival. Walk facing traffic so that vehicles can see you and you can see what is coming.
- Do not display obvious valuables on your person (jewelry, handbags, etc.) unless completely necessary.
- Only carry the amount of cash that you require. Credit cards and bank cards should be kept securely out of sight and not in back pockets.
- If you think you are being followed, go to the nearest place where there are people, even a private house, and ring the Gardaí. If you are assaulted contact the Gardai (Irish Police) immediately by dialing 999 or 112
- Avoid situations where you are travelling alone at night-time. There is safety in numbers. However, if you must travel on your own, plan your journey by scheduling your journey to coincide with bus and train times or use a taxi if no other convenient transport is available.
- Personal Security Alarms are a convenient safeguard – and are available in the Students' Union shop.
- There are 6 E-beacons placed throughout campus for emergency services.

Safety at Home

- Ensure that your apartment and house doors are locked at all times. When leaving your apartment, check that all windows and doors are locked.
- Never give your apartment keys to anyone else, and do not leave your keys where others could have access to them.
- Before you admit any callers to your apartment, verify their identity – ask for identification if you are in doubt.
- Inform a trusted neighbour if you are going away. Ensure that you do not have obvious signs of a vacant apartment – curtains drawn during daylight hours, etc.
- Make sure all your property is marked with your own personal identification code. Items of value should be securely locked away.

University Learning Support Services

Centre for Transformative Learning

The Centre for Transformative Learning exists to encourage and facilitate excellence in teaching and learning within and beyond the University of Limerick.

Its role is to encourage scholarship and research in teaching and learning, to help ensure that effective teaching is valued, supported and developed and to encourage innovation in teaching and learning activities. Enhancing the learning and development experience for both teachers and students is pivotal to the role of the centre.

Dedicated to heightening the profile and value of teaching activities, collaboratively engaging in evidence-based research and enabling key teaching innovations, the Centre works to provide support, to advise, to recognise and to facilitate all those involved in teaching and learning at UL.

Regional Writing Centre

The UL Regional Writing Centre (RWC) offers a free and friendly place for all students (undergraduate and postgraduate) to come and address any aspect of their writing. This resource is dedicated to helping students develop strategies to become more confident, critical and autonomous writers.

The Regional Writing Centre practices a non-invasive, inductive approach to writing development, utilising peer-tutors who work with both undergraduate and postgraduate students to identify and evaluate their writing situation and practices so that they can evaluate and improve the effectiveness of their research and writing strategies.

When a student who has English as a second or other language runs into difficulties while writing their papers, it may be a language problem or it may be a writing problem or it may be both. Peer tutors are not language specialists, but good writers who understand what it's like to worry about a paper, to panic over deadlines, to wonder if an assignment is proceeding on the right track or if they have hit a writing wall. If there are language issues, peer tutors can suggest some strategies that good writers might use to access the appropriate language or suggest some language-learning resources that you could use to improve your use of English.

In addition to peer tutors, the RWC offers workshops on writing in academic contexts, writing-related events and access to a number of online writing resources on the homepage

Mathematics Learning Centre (MLC)

The purpose of the Mathematics Learning Centre is to support students' mathematics learning across all courses in UL by:

- Providing a dedicated area with supervised access to help and resources. This area is based online and/or in-person, as appropriate.
- Delivering appropriate support services for students on service mathematics courses
- Addressing the mathematics needs of special groups e.g. mature students, adult returners, transfer students, international students
- Researching the needs of learners in terms of materials, pedagogy, delivery systems and other supports

It is well known that many capable students, for a variety of reasons, may find it difficult to achieve the required standards in mathematics to support their degree studies.

All UL students studying courses that have a mathematics or statistics module can avail of the Mathematics Learning Centre's (MLC) services free of charge.

Information and Communication Technology Learning Centre

The Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Learning Centre aims to support and promote active learning among the students in ICT related programmes at UL, via the use of proven learner support approaches, tutoring innovation, research and evaluation, with the goal of developing learners who are confident and effective ICT practitioners.

Science Learning Centre (SLC)

The Science Learning Centre provides support to UL students whose degree includes a science or engineering component. The Science Learning Centre provides support to students by two main routes

- A dedicated Drop-in Centre
- Support tutorials for specific modules

The Science Learning Centre aims primarily to support undergraduate students taking first year and some second year science modules, although help is given whenever possible to other years also.

Living in Limerick

Events and activities in Limerick

Visitors to Limerick City will have no problems finding things to see and things to do. The historic nature of Ireland's third largest city, and indeed the beautiful nature of its environs, provides many areas of interest. Keep an eye on Limerick.ie and I love Limerick for up to date events and activities taking place in the city. A few of the main attractions are listed below but there are many more to discover.

Read about some of the things other international students have done.

King John's Castle

King John's Castle, on the south side of Thomond Bridge, built in 1210 "to dominate the bridge and watch towards Thomond," is one of the finest examples of fortified Norman architecture in Ireland. The castle is roughly square on plan. Its 60-metre frontage along the river is flanked by two massive round towers, each over 15m in diameter, with walls 3m thick. The tower nearest the Bridge, the first portion of the castle to be erected, still bears the scars of the besieging cannon of 1691. Eastwards of this tower in the north wall, is the castle gate entrance. On the three landsides, the castle was protected by a deep, broad moat, fed with water from the Shannon. Only the narrow drawbridge to the castle gate allowed entry. Work is continuing to improve their conditions of the remaining walls and towers.

St Mary's Cathedral

At the junction of Nicholas Street and Bridge Street stands St. Mary's cathedral, the ecclesiastical centre of the fortress for hundreds of years. The full title of this cathedral is the "Cathedral and Parochial church of the Blessed Virgin Mary." It was built in 1172 by Donal Mór O'Brien, the last king of Munster. Tourists will find excellent documentation of historical remains within the ancient cathedral itself. The most noteworthy relics of the past are the ancient altar stone used when mass was celebrated in the cathedral, and the splendidly carved misericords in the choir. The misericords are unique in Ireland as the only surviving pre-Elizabethan carvings that date from 1480.

Driving

In Ireland, people drive on the left-hand side of the road. In towns and cities, the speed limit is normally 20 to 50 kilometres per hour depending on the part of the town. On certain roads, higher limits may apply. A general speed limit of 80 to 100 kilometres per hour applies on all roads except for motorways where a speed limit of 120 kilometres per hour applies.

The laws regarding speeding, drink-driving and wearing seatbelts in Ireland are very strict.

There is a penalty point system in operation, whereby points will be added to your driving license for road safety offences. Full details on all road safety offences can be found on the RSA website.
