General Questions about the UL Student Exit Survey

Q1 What is the exit survey?
The exit survey is an online student satisfaction survey, based on the UK’s National Student Survey (NSS). The survey is circulated on an annual basis to all students registered on taught programmes that are expected to graduate in the current academic year. It is designed to provide graduating students with the opportunity to provide commentary and meaningful feedback on both their course and the broader university supports. The specific questions included in the survey are given at the end of this document.

Q2 What is the purpose of the exit survey?
The exit survey provides feedback from students outlining what they liked about their time at UL and what they think could be improved. This feedback is aimed at course directors, course boards, heads of departments1, faculty deans, heads of support divisions and affiliates to assure and enhance the quality of a course and the broader university supports. The questions focus on the course as whole. At an institutional level, the use of a systematic exit survey helps us meet national and international quality obligations, and aggregate data can serve as a useful starting point for discussions during institutional, faculty and departmental quality reviews.

Q3 What questions are asked in the survey?
In addition to their overall satisfaction with UL and their course, students are asked how satisfied they are with each of the following areas:

- Teaching and Learning
- Assessment and Feedback
- Academic Support
- Course Organisation and Management
- Learning Resources
- Personal Development
- Work Placements

“Appendix A – Exit Survey instrument” lists all of the questions asked in the exit survey.

Q4 What is the QSU’s role in the exit survey
The QSU is responsible solely for administering the survey instrument on behalf of the university, as well as generating and distributing the resultant exit survey reports. The QSU also publishes institutional level summaries for the past 3 years on its website (http://www.ul.ie/quality/student-exit-survey). The QSU has no role in follow-up actions, which are a matter for individual course directors, course boards, heads of department and/or the academic line management system, as appropriate.

Q5 Are such exit surveys undertaken in other third-level institutions?
Yes. Systematic surveys designed to gather student opinion on courses and teaching are a growing feature of university life, both nationally and internationally.

1 In these FAQs, reference to departments includes schools and reference to heads of department includes heads of school.
Q6  Are all students surveyed?
Only final year students that are due to graduate in the academic year that the exit survey is running are surveyed. The survey only includes students registered on taught programmes. Research postgraduate students are not included in this survey; these are surveyed by the School of Graduate and Professional Studies.

Q7  How do you decide on what students to invite to participate in the survey?
Student Academic Administration provide the Quality Support Unit with a “prospective graduate list” of students that are due to graduate in the relevant academic year (taught programmes only). This list is used to generate the list of student invitations to participate in the exit survey.

Q8  How many student invitations are sent for the exit survey annually?
In any given semester, approximately 5,000 students (a combination of both bachelor’s and non-bachelor’s) receive invitations to participate in the survey. The “prospective graduate list” that Student Academic Administration provide to the Quality Support Unit is used to identify the appropriate students to include.

Q9  Are research postgraduate students surveyed?
No, research postgraduate students are not included in this survey; these are surveyed by the School of Graduate and Professional Studies.

Q10  Are students from linked providers surveyed?
No, only final year students (non-research) that are registered as UL students on SI, UL’s student records system, are included in the survey. Linked providers (such as MIC) are responsible for ensuring that they provide appropriate feedback mechanisms for their students.

Q11  When is the exit survey launched each year?
The exit survey is launched in the spring semester annually, usually around week 7 (mid-March).

Q12  When does the exit survey close each year?
The exit survey usually closes in mid-September. This gives students the opportunity to complete the exit survey at any stage before the September graduation and a few weeks after it. Also, some students, such as those on programmes of one year duration are encouraged to complete the survey closer to the end of their studies.

Q13  Why is the exit survey launched in March and closed in September?
The exit survey has been running in UL since 2009. This timeframe is aimed to suit the majority of students that will be graduating in the academic year. Students that are not due to complete their studies until late in the year are encouraged to complete the survey as late as possible in the year. From our experience, some student prefer the opportunity to give feedback when they have completed all aspects of their programme, including final exams and even after they have graduated. A closing date of mid-September facilitates students that wish to complete the survey after graduation.

Q14  I am a course director and the students on my course are not due to graduate until next January. Why are they receiving an invitation to complete an exit survey in March?
The exit survey is launched in mid-March and is closed in mid-September. This timeframe is aimed to suit the majority of students that will be graduating in the academic year. Students that are not due to complete their studies until late in the year are encouraged to complete the survey as late as possible in the year.

Q15 How will students be invited to participate in the exit survey?
Students will receive a personalised email from exitsurvey@ul.ie to the UL student email account, asking them to participate in the UL Exit Survey. The unique link for each student to complete the survey will be included in this email, along with some information in relation to the exit survey and a list of FAQs.

Q16 I am a course director and would like a “targeted” reminder sent to my class. Who do I contact to request this?
Contact the QSU exit survey administrators at exitsurvey@ul.ie and state that you would like a target reminder sent. Please remember to include the following information: the name of the programme, the date that you would like the reminder to be sent and any other information that you would like included in the reminder. Please allow a minimum of 2 working days’ notice to the QSU when requesting a targeted reminder.

Q17 Is there a generic link to the exit survey that I can send to my students to allow them to complete the survey?
No. The survey software is designed to generate unique links for each student and to automatically included these links in any email correspondence. If you would like to encourage students to complete the survey, please contact exitsurvey@ul.ie and request a “targeted reminder” for your class (please refer to Q16).

Q18 I would like to encourage my students to complete the exit survey, what can I do to help?
In our experience, the most successful way to encourage students to complete the survey is for a course director to talk to the students in class and ask them to complete the survey. If you would like to coincide this talk with an email reminder to the students, please contact exitsurvey@ul.ie and request a “targeted” reminder to be sent to your class. Please remember to include the following information: the name of the programme, the date that you would like the reminder to be sent and any other information that you would like included in the reminder. Please allow a minimum of 2 working days’ notice to the QSU when requesting a targeted reminder.

Q19 I have ideas to improve the exit survey. Who do I talk to?
Please send your suggestions to exit survey@ul.ie.

Q20 Will the exit survey process be reviewed?
As process owner, instigation of a review will be at the behest of the VPAA&SE.

Analysis

Q21 What cohort of students does the exit survey refer to?
The exit survey year refers to the graduating academic year of the student. E.g. Exit survey 2018 refers to the students that are due to graduate in the academic year 2017/8.

Q22 How is the data analysed?
In the first instance, the data is anonymised and no student name is ever linked to the data provided in standard reports. The quantitative data is analysed in Excel using prescribed reporting templates. The Quality Support Unit (QSU) reviews qualitative commentary from surveys as part of the standard survey reporting process. Some commentary may be redacted or anonymised as deemed necessary prior to standard report distribution. The following standard reports are then generated and circulated as listed below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Report type</th>
<th>Circulation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>University level report</td>
<td>Executive Committee / Academic Council</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Institutional summary for the web</td>
<td>Public / online</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Department reports</td>
<td>HoD and faculty dean</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Programme reports</td>
<td>Course director/board and HoD</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Support Department reports</td>
<td>Head of unit and line leader</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Q23 How is the percentage satisfaction / “aggregate agree score” calculated?

The “aggregate agree score”, as used in the NSS, is the sum of the "strongly agree" and "agree" responses, divided by the total number of valid responses for each question. The number of valid responses is the total number of responses less the "n/a" (not applicable) responses. A sample calculation is given below.

Let’s say that 100 students respond to a question with the following response distribution:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Response</th>
<th>Count</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>strongly agree</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>agree</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neither agree nor disagree</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Disagree</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Strongly disagree</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>n/a</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The “aggregate agree score” or percentage satisfaction is calculated as:

\frac{\text{sum of strongly agree and agree}}{\text{Total} - \text{n/a}} = \frac{(50 + 20)}{(100 - 5)} = 74\%

Q24 Why is commentary “cleansed”/redacted?

The Quality Support Unit (QSU) reviews qualitative commentary from surveys as part of the standard survey reporting process. Some commentary may be redacted or anonymised as deemed necessary prior to standard report distribution, in accordance with the process outlined in the Guidelines on Redaction of Qualitative Responses in QSU Surveys. The aim of redaction or anonymization of standard reports is to maintain the integrity and effectiveness of the survey as a quality assurance and enhancement instrument by preventing the publication of potentially false negative statements in relation to individuals. Profanities are also removed during this process.

Q25 Is commentary “cleansing” / redaction standard practice?

Yes, both the UK’s NSS (on which the exit survey is based) and ISSE (Irish Survey of Student Engagement) have policies of anonymising and cleansing commentary prior to releasing the data to institutions.

Reporting

Q26 What is the minimum response threshold for reporting?

The minimum response threshold is at least ten responses and at least 20% response rate. In cases where this minimum response rate is not met, the standard report that is generated for the programme/department is a “comment only” report. This report does not contain any graphs, but contains any comments made by students.
Q27 Are the exit survey results published?

Q28 What happens to the survey results?
Once the survey closes, QSU staff download the results into different standard reports. These standard reports are fully anonymised and student names are not linked to these reports. As summarised in Q22, the following reports are generated:
- An overall aggregate report is provided to UL senior management (including the president, vice presidents and deans).
- A public report is published on the Student Surveys page of the QSU website.
- Heads of department receive detailed reports relevant to all the programmes run by their department.
- Course directors receive detailed reports relevant to the specific programme they manage.
- Reports are generated for heads of support divisions/units based on commentary made by students.

The survey results are then discussed at university, department and course board level with a view to improving the student experience.

Q29 Who sees the results and are they confidential?
The results for any one programme are made available to (a) the course director (b) the relevant HoD (c) the relevant faculty dean and (d) members of Executive Committee and Academic Council as part of an aggregate report. The course director is expected to share the results with the course board. The results for any one programme are confidential to this group of individuals.

The aggregate department results are made available to (a) the relevant HoD and (b) the relevant faculty dean. These aggregate department results are also included in the report to Executive Committee and Academic Council.

Exit survey results may be used for reporting purposes at programme, department, faculty or university level. Examples of such reports include the summary institutional-level report (available on the Exit surveys page of the QSU website), the report prepared for Executive Committee and reports that individual faculties may wish to include in, for example, their quality review self-assessment report.

Q30 What information does a standard exit survey report contain?
The standard exit survey report contains the university satisfaction levels for each question presented in tabular format followed by a series of graphs (one for each quantitative question) and the commentary provided by students. Various benchmarking and trend analysis tables are also included in these reports such as comparisons between the university results from the previous five years or comparison of the department/programme to the university results. Note that student commentary is only provided in the department and programme level reports and not in the university level / web reports.
Q31 What information does a support department report contain?
A support department report contains all of the commentary made in relation to the support department/services provided by the department. In most cases, there are no direct questions asked in relation to specific support departments and the report comments are extracted from student commentary provided in response to “open-ended” questions. The comments are grouped into “positive commendations” and “suggestions” for improvement and are presented in tabular format by question number ascending. Where relevant to the support department, e.g. library and information systems or student academic administration, the programme of study of the respondent is included. If the programme of study is not relevant to the support department, then it is not included in the report. In cases where there are specific questions asked in relation to a support department, quantitative questions are presented in graphical format in the report, followed by qualitative (open-ended) questions is tabular format.

Q32 What is a “comment only” report?
The minimum response threshold for the generation of a standard full report is at least ten responses and at least 20% response rate. In cases where this minimum response rate is not met, the standard report that is generated for the programme/department is a “comment only” report. This report does not contain any graphs, but contains any comments made by students.

Q33 Any advice for course directors and heads of department in relation to interpreting and following up on the exit survey results?
Exit survey results for a programme should not be considered as an end point but rather as a starting point in terms of reflecting upon, evaluating and enhancing the quality of the programme.

When interpreting the results, the absolute number of respondents and the percentage response rate achieved should be considered. Of course, it would be unsafe to assume that a handful of responses could be considered a reliable indicator of overall student satisfaction levels within a large class. However, it would be equally inappropriate to dismiss survey feedback automatically based on a low response rate. Whatever the response rate/respondent numbers recorded, a follow-up conversation with the students can only help clarify their feedback and, in turn, allow you to respond to that feedback. For example, a class conversation could be incorporated into a lecture for the following year’s cohort.

Q34 Any advice for heads of department in relation to interpreting and following up on the exit survey results?
The head of department receives a copy of all exit survey reports for all programmes within the department. The reports contain the full programme results in addition to colour-coded (traffic light) tables benchmarking the programme results against the current year’s university and department results, and the previous year’s programme results. Follow-up actions, which are a matter for individual course directors, course boards, heads of department and/or the academic line management system, as appropriate. With local knowledge of the programme’s context and delivery, you (i.e., the HoD) are best placed to determine what follow-up action is appropriate. Where student feedback suggests a significant degree of dissatisfaction, you should immediately discuss this with the relevant course board. If the course board have not planned an exploratory discussion with the following cohort of students, it is appropriate that you request that they do so.
Depending on the circumstances, you may feel it appropriate to explore the issues independently. In consultation with relevant staff, you may wish to avail of assistance from course directors or course boards, the faculty dean or the faculty Assistant Dean Academic Affairs.

Q35 How do I access past exit survey reports for a programme?
Programme level exit survey reports are emailed directly to the course director and the head of department is copied. The QSU recommends that course directors and heads of department retain exit survey reports for their own records (and in accordance with the university’s records Management and Retention policy). In the first instance, the previous course director and/or head of department should be approached for a copy of the required report. If it is not possible to acquire previous reports in this way, please contact exitsurvey@ul.ie to request a copy of the report you require. Please note that the QSU, resource permitting, will only be in a position to provide replacement reports to the relevant course director and/or head of department.

Q36 I am a course director / head of department and have received a “comment only” report. Why is this?
The minimum response threshold is at least ten responses and at least 20% response rate. In cases where this minimum response rate is not met, the standard report that is generated for the programme/department is a “comment only” report. This report does not contain any graphs, but contains any comments made by students.

Q37 I am a course director for a small class (<10 students) so my course will never reach the minimum response threshold. Can I request a full report?
Please contact the QSU survey administrators on exitsurvey@ul.ie to discuss this and request a full report. We understand that some classes will never reach the minimum response threshold and, resource permitting, can generate a full report, upon request.

Q38 I am not the course director but I do teach on the programme and wish to access the exit survey results. Who do I contact?
Contact the course director or head of department, who will be best placed to assess your request.

Q39 I am a new course director and I want to request a copy of previous exit survey reports for my course, whom do I contact?
We recommend that you contact the previous course director or the head of department. Please refer to Q35 for more information.

Q40 I have received the course report and there are some “xxx”s in the comments. Whom can I contact to find out whom the “xxx” refers to?
Where “xxx” appears on a report, an individual’s name (or other unique identifier, such as module code) has been removed in accordance with the process outlined in the Guidelines on Redaction of Qualitative Responses in QSU Surveys. The QSU will not be in a position to give any additional information in relation to the “xxx” (Please refer to Q24 Why is commentary “cleansed”/redacted?).

Q41 I am a course director and have just received the exit survey report from my course. The number of students on the course does not match the sample size on the report. Why is this?
All students that are registered in their final year of the programme will be invited to participate in the exit survey. This list of “prospective graduates” is provided to us by Student Academic Administration, early in March prior to the launch of the exit survey. Some students may not have registered by the time this list was generated. If students register after this download, then they will not be included in the exit survey. If there is a very large discrepancy in the number of students on your course and the sample size, please contact student academic administration, who will be able to investigate and provide the exact number of student registrations.

Q42  Can I include exit survey reports as part of my CV, academic portfolio or promotion application?
As the exit survey pertains to the programme of study as a whole, it would not be appropriate to include exit survey-related data in material such as CV, portfolios and promotion applications.
